Media Update on Launceston water outage:

A large area of West, South and Central Launceston as well as areas of Prospect and Kings Meadows has been impacted by a water outage from this morning.

The cause was a pump failure at Lower Brougham pump station.

The pump has now been repaired and water supply is slowly returning to normal.

TasWater advises that initially the water may be significantly coloured and remain cloudy for some time through this afternoon.

Pressure will initially be very low but will build as the afternoon progresses.

Water should be fully restored by 3pm today.

Some fire hydrants may be impacted as the pressure in the system increases.

TasWater apologises for the inconvenience and asks customers to monitor our website and face book page for updates.

Ends.
